Greenhouse Gas Emissions

To get an idea of the greenhouse gas emissions resulting from your household electricity use, multiply your electricity usage against the NSW average emissions factor of 1.068. This factor is based on the Australian Greenhouse Office Factory and Method Workbook, December 2006, and means that 1 kWh of energy consumed will produce emissions equivalent to 1.068 kg of carbon dioxide. This measurement refers to the emissions in kilograms (kg) of carbon dioxide equivalent, which is the measure of the global warming potential of greenhouse gases.

Remember that if you purchase GreenPower accredited renewable energy from us, subtract this amount from your total energy consumption before you calculate your emissions.

For an interactive energy calculator that you can tailor to your house and the appliances you use, visit our online calculator (www.integral.com.au).
